

James Hall

James is an elite British gymnast with over a decade of international experience, having represented Great Britain at five European Championships, five World Championships, two Commonwealth Games, and an Olympic Games. During his career he has been fortunate enough to achieve European and Commonwealth golds as well as a bronze world medal, to name a few.

Alongside his athletic career, he currently serves as the Chair of the Gymnast Advisory Panel for British Gymnastics, a role he has held since the panel was established in 2022. This position has allowed him to represent athletes in key decision-making processes, ensuring their voices are heard in areas such as policy development and the sport's overall direction.

He is passionate about using his experience to create positive change in gymnastics. By fostering collaboration between athletes, coaches, and governing bodies, he aims to ensure the sport remains safe, inclusive, and successful for future generations. James takes pride in his commitment to both his performance and his leadership and is always striving to contribute to the sport he loves.
